JFK Lays Down Two Conditions

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (APP) -The whole tortured and gloomy problem of disarmament is summed up in two conditions laid down by President Kennedy

1. Any disarmament agreement, he told his news conference Wednesday, would have to cover the world and that must ultimately include Red China.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) -Today's new delay in his space voyage doesn't find John H Glenn Jr. "sitting on his hands

For this astronaut, headed eventually for a great venture, is a man "remarkably able to bear frustration," says Dr. Robert Voas, a psychologist who is trainng officer for America's seven astronauts.

Furthermore, Glenn is busier than most people realize, and the activity helps him handle the long waits and last-minute postpone ments, Dr. Voas said.

To many people, the idea of riding into space is frightening To come close to the moment of pushing the button-and having that moment stayed again and again-could seem an unbearable strain. How can an astronaut take Partly it is because of training event to them, much as is the sight of blood to a surgeon.

"I'm sure John is aware, in fact more than most of us, of the dangers in his mission," Voas said. "But I've seen no evidence with John that concern for his personal safety is a very important item. It could well be that the toughest decision of his second year in office will be the decision to resume above-ground nuclear on the entire Free World, because Russian

There is no agreement and no possibility of agreement on whether such testing should be resumed. Mr. Kennedy will have to pull his decision out of his own hat, knowing that when he does so he will be unable to justify it to those who hold the opposite opinion.

And hardest of all for a conscientious man will be the knowledge that circumstances have made it impossible for him to decide to do anything else but order a resumption of testing.

IT IS TRUE that the United States already has enough nuclear power to destroy the Soviet Union. It is true that the resumption of testing, when it is ordered, will amount to little more than a reaction to the testing done by the Soviet Union. It is true that the United States will be doing nothing more but saying to the Soviet Union, in effect, "Anything you can do I can do Science has made it a certainty that if the world becomes the victim of man's knowledge the end will be as utterly Scientific as the applied skill of Science can make it. Nothing will have been left to chance.

Scientific testing will have pinned down everything ahead of time; there will be no loose ends. These august gentlemen can only huff and puff and assure their constituents and their devotees that they will get to the bottom of the Powers affair, yes sir, if it takes all summer - and you can bet on that, my friends.

This is all their huffing and puffing amounts to unless they car get their teeth into something, and they won't have a chance to get their teeth into anything until the people with the most direct interest in getting the Powers story straight have finished their questioning.

Political Union Will Take Longer

With no advance warning, the United States and Canada are being swept along by the same strong economic current that has been carrying Europe out of the doldrums.

The current issue of U.S. News & World Report reports that union between the United States and Canada is an idea gaining support, especially among Canadian businessmen.

The idea concerns only economic cooperation in the immediate future. Political union, it is acknowledged, is farther away and on a more limited basis. But the faster the European Common Market materializes, if Britain becomes a member, the faster Canada will be pushed into closer economic cooperation with the United States.

Further impetus has been given the idea by the new state of Alaska, drawing more attention to the closeness of the geographical ties between the United States and large enough to utilize the materials to best advantage. Moreover, Canadian manufacturing is not notably efficient, because it has lacked the sufficient volume to make it competitive with U.S. manufacturing.

The over-all idea is that economic union with the United States is coming about by force of circumstances, including the European Economic Community that promises to remake Europe and eventually to bring about political as well as economic union. It is becoming a question of when, not whether. And the impetus is coming from Canadian businessmen, not from U.S. businessmen, though the latter have no objection.

Economic cooperation is not going to be an isolated phenomenon in Europe that will be of only remote interest to Americans. It is now as close to home as tariff revision and the prospect that two kinds of Americans-Canadians and citizens of the United States-may be in a national merger before the end of the 20th century.

Warner Brothers have paid $51/2 million for movie rights to "My Fair Lady." Most amazing story of musical comedy history could now be rewritten with following

Alan Lerner, a poor boy who has to struggle along with only a couple of Broadway hits and a millionaire father, is outside a railway station shabbily clad and selling fresh ideas for the theater.

A professor, Henry Higgins, noticing that Alan speaks the language of Broadway, bets a friend he can take him under his wing and teach him language of the ming, the World Bank, Golconda and Mammon.

(He knows that the boy is peddling scripts that might cost less than $75,000 to produce and would consequently have to close after the second night.)

Alan responds to professor and is soon having no trouble pronouncing words like "opulence," "super-talent," "capitalistic,"

"exchequer," "affluence" and "Utopia." He can also pronounce G. Bernard Shaw, Fred Loewe and Pygmalion, winning cooperation of all three. Things reach point where tables are reversed, with Prof. Higgins turning out to be deficient in intellect and "know-how," while young author shows genius. Big scene comes when Lerner, Loewe and ghost of Shaw appear on balcony and burst into "We Could Have Collaborated All Evening. Furthermore We Did So and Ran 2,500 Nights."

In a crucial scene Alan's father protests his own son is being unfairly matched from chainstore trade and sings "Get Him Back to the Store and Women's-Wear Business on Time." In a surprise scene Good Fairy, Lady Luck, Santa Claus, Prosperina, Golden Claf and Peter Rabbit appear and keep Alan working on how to run longer than a Geneva diarmament meeting. In finale there is a chariot race between Warner Brothers and other Hollywood producers. Warner wins by a certified check.

"Boom-

It is time this country got to know the "boomers." For we are a land overrun by them. Which is fine. Otherwise we might be overrun by hardy lot because theirs is a tough lot. For they are the men on the move, shifting to mountain Victor Riesel carving out huge caverns, digging huge holes into the ground for vast concrete tubes. These are science - fiction type silos. Some day soon we should have 800 of them, all filled with warheads aimed at Sino-Soviet cities and military targets.

How soon these Atlas and Titan and Minuteman silos will be finished depends on the "boomand on how frequently they play games like calling in sick, or pulling a strike because coffee time was shifted. And they sure have been striking parts of the $3 billion defense complex.

Right up to this very minute. In fact, January was the worst month on the silo front in a long time. So angered by the wintertime silly strike season was Arthur Goldberg he reported this to the President and called in some of the construction union leaders. Goldberg said he wanted the walkouts stopped. Immediately. He indicated he wanted January to be a freak phenomenon, not the beginning of another missile

THE "BOOMERS" apparently did not agree. A "boomer" is a craftsman who is hired on at an isolated base or in an area where labor is scarce. When they are taken on in large numbers, they boom up the small communities near the site. Sometimes living is rough for the "boomer." He has no permanent housing, no fixed schools for his youngsters, no roots, though he is well paid.

This I gather is like putting a book of matches under a table leg to steady it. Result: Loss of 1500 man days; the backing up of the flow of supplies and a delay in timetables.

At another site, the Atlas Lincoln Air Force Base in Nebraska, there was a series of quickies. Eleven in all in January. As one government official put it: "They got silly. There were sick calls and objection to the most miniscule matters. Time and money were lost."

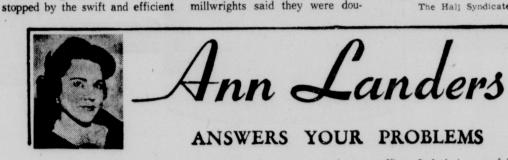

Earlier there was a stoppage at a cavern dig-out under Cheyenne Mountain near Colorado at any time since Mr. Kuczma's struck there because one man was fired. He had moved into There were, for example, five an area despite a sign warning

GOP Bankruptcy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Public Has Poor Image of the Republican Party

Images seem to be the political marily because the country was so strikingly the disrupted, floundering state of the Republican party than the image of that party which is being presented to the people. Out of nowhere in politics comes a possible candidate for the Republican oresiden - David Lawrence tial nomination - George Romney - and he, too, makes a speech saying the image of the Republican party which the public has is not a good one. The mere fact that Mr. Romney is given so much attention - even though he has never run for office or participated in the councils of the Republican party - is evidence of the bankruptcy of the party itself. It gives the impression that it is desperately searching for miracle men - however unknown they may be - in the vague hope of finding someone to challenge President Kennedy in

The truth of the matter is that the Republican party is in virtually the same state of disorganization that the Democrats found themselves in 1928, after the election of Herbert Hoover by an overwhelming majority of electoral votes - 444 to 87. Yet the Democrats pulled themselves together and defeated Mr. Hoover for reelection only four years later -

The principal thing wrong with the Republicans is that they do not have an articulate party but a lot of actions and blocs. They not only lack unity, they lack strategy. The Democrats from 1928 to 1932 carried on a vigorous and hard-hitting campaign of opposition. They didn't spend too much time telling what they were for, but a lot of time telling what they were against.

When would-be candidates think only of themselves - how to carry water on both shoulders, how to be both conservative liberal and radical liberal, and mostly how to blow their own horns without really getting down to the business of organizaing an opposition party on basic issuesthen there is not much hope of victory for them in four or eight or even 12 years. Politically speaking, the tactic of waiting for the country to tire ence or conclave to set forth what of an incumbent party is not principles. enough. The opposition party in Britain today gives an example of how to help the electorate make up its mind that it is already tired of the incumbents.

Much of the fault lies in the confusion among Republicans over what they need to win a victory. The theory that all that's required is a popular personality is based on a misconception. Mr. Eisenhower won in 1952 pri- sound economics.

fad nowadays. Nothing illustrates against "corruption, communism and Korea," and not just because he was popular. The way the tide was running that year, Senator Robert Taft could have Ike won in 1956 because there economic contentment in the country and there was substantial recovery from the 1954 recession.

The country usually votes for the party in power when times are good and against it when times are bad, no matter how able the candidate may be.

BACK IN THE 1920s - to cite one of many examples - the Democratic candidate was James M. Cox, three times governor of Ohio, an able man, a fine speaker, and head and shoulders above the Republican candidate-Warren Harding - who was hardly known nationally. But times were bad and there was resentment against the various disturbances to the life of the country occasioned by World War I. So the nation gave Harding one of the biggest electoral majorities in many decades - 404 to 127.

Unemployment totals today are still considerable. The farm problem hasn't been solved. Exports are higher than imports every year but our margin of international payments is dangerously narrow because the government is spending and lending too many dollars abroad. Talk of devaluation of the dollar is still heard. The Kennedy administration, moreover, is stretching its powers beyond the law in many a field and is substituting the "executive order" for the law of the land, which can only be written by Congress or the people by constitutional amendment

The Supreme Court itself has repeatedly gone beyond the law of the land - and one can be critical of the John Birchers' extremism and still make that point. The objectives in the civil rights controversy, for instance, are sound but the method of enforcing them is subject to criticism as beyond the Constitution. Also, the government is applying one rule to business, but no rule to labor-union monopolies. Incidentally, valuable time has been lost in floundering on the question of resuming nuclear tests.

THERE ARE DOZENS of issues which describe the discontent of the country but the Republicans aren't even organizing a confer-

When they have done this, it will be time to ask which candidate best fits the organized expression of the largest number of Republican voters.

The Republicans have yet to use their position in Congress effectively to prublicize to the country the extent to which they believe the administration is veering from constitutional principles and

A Short Day

By TRUMAN TWILL

A strange and potentially awkward thing is happening. There is a conspiracy to send the lady I balance a check book with and me to England so we can see the sights and come bcak home broadened.

People we scarecely know sidle up to us and murmur, "Be sure to go to England this summer." People we know well are putting the arm on us to start packing our bags.

And all the time this lady and I keep looking at each other and wondering why everybody is so hell-bent on getting us out of the country, as if we were Mr. and Mrs. Unlucky Luciano.

We have no objection to going to England. We're all for it. But we hate to be pushed.

And if we do go, we don't want anybody to be disappointed about the broadening effect. The last thing we want to see is what people will expect us to see - the broadening sights.

We are not interested in museums, churches, monuments, piles of rocks, the place where Shakespeare poached a deer, battlegrounds, town halis, towers and

We are not interested in libraries, documents, castles, school, frt, guardmen, pageantry, waxworks, public squares, famous fountains, fumadiddle and historic beheadings.

We are not picture - takers, sketchers, or collectors of memorabilia. We are not interested in family ancestors, socialized medicine, British politics, or delving into the European Economic Market and its effect on the sterling bloc and the commerce of the Commonwealth.

There is only one reason we want to go to England, other than to see where our children have been living since last August and to thank some nice people for being good to them. We would like to see how Englishmen, Scotsmen and Welshmen whose circumstances are similar to ours live out their quiet lives.

We'd like to drive in a leisurely way from one village to another and stay each night at a different pub on the British bed-and-breakfast plan. We'd like to see trees, fields and streams in the countryside the way the people who live there see them - unhurried and with a sense of being part of something that has lasted so long people really mean it when they say there will always be an England. We'd like to know what it smells tike in England in the early morning and at dusk. And we'd like to sit and watch the life of English villages unfold for another short day in a long history. When we mention this, people look at us as if we'd flipped and tell us about Big Ben, the Buckingham Palace Guards, London Tower, Stonehenge and Stratfordon-Avon until they make us wonder if that's what we'd do if we went to England. If that's all there is to it, we might as well stay home and look at picture cards. If wouldn't cost a penny and there would be no complications

We're going to be sorry to disappoint a lot of people but it's settled. Nothing we've seen before if we go to England, unless it happens to be there and unavoidably in sight Okav?

IT IS ESTIMATED that more than $36 billion in sales are created every year by advertising; 'sales which otherwise would not be made.

"Take that away and you take away a big part of the prosperity of the country. Make no mistake about it. . . advertising, by stimulating demand, also stimulates jobs and wages and keeps the factory wheels turning.'

As an example of the counterattack against critics of advertising carried in the series, an advertisement prepared by Kenyon and Eckhardt, Inc., stands out.

The illustration shows the eyes and forehead of a woman with the words, "What do they think is inside? Putty?" (The ad won top award in a contest sponsored by Media Agencies Clinets magazine.)

The ad goes on to point out that advertising people have learned the hard way that you don't push the American consumer around. "In fact, that's the irony of it," the ad says. "We, who are accused, have far more respect for people than our critics who profess such tender concern for their fellow men. . .' In another message, Gardner Advertising Co., St. Louis, has a clever tag line: "Life without advertising? Simple. Practically nothing to it."

Throughout the series the theme runs thus: If you find an advertisement that is offensive or unbelievable the answer is, don't buy the product. This is the message of the Mogul Williams & Saylor ad and of an Indianapolis

Lucky Women

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) - What's right with women?

Men, who usually feel inferior in the presence of superior beings, spend considerable time knocking women and saying what's wrong with them.

The usual wail is: "Women are illogical, capricious and unreasonable. They are too demanding. They act like the world was made just for them. They don't have any real brains, and if they did, they wouldn't know what to do with them.'

There is, it must be admitted, some validity to these criticisms, however tinged they may be with masculine vanity and downright

It is probably true also that most women lack what men call "plain ordinary common horse sense." On the other hand, why do they need horse sense? What is the fate of even the most sensible horse in this world, compared to that of the average woman?

If a man is honest enough to drop his prejudices, he has no trouble piercing the so-called mystery of women. He has no trouble figuring out why women outlive men, get to spend most of the money men earn, and generally are better adjusted to life and its problems.

The answer is simple: Women are born lucky-and believe in luck all their days. Men aren'tand don't.

It is this magic difference that makes men doubt themselves and wilt under the buffets of time. Hardship may bend a woman, but they rarely break her. For she dwells in sublime great expectations. She knows her natal gift of good luck will surely change the situation for the better.

predictable and unreasonable. That is why women are too. And Beaver Local Booster Club met bara of West Point. it is their blind belief in their Tuesday evening in the high school The nominating committee was

Any man who has had any experience at all with women can, if he looks back, find many instances to prove this theory. A man is crazy to look for a wife who is merely intelligent, clever, or blatantly beautiful. The thing to do is to look around and marry the one who has the best knack of beating the laws of chance.

Then trust to luck-hers! Maybe some of it will rub off on you.

@ Can you name the textbook that's completely rewritten every day?

There is one, you know. It's your daily newspaper. When you stop to think, isn't your newspaper the most up-to-date textbook on a great many school subjects?

It's unsurpassed in coverage of current political, social or economic events. It's filled with reports of latest discoveries in biology, chemistry and all sciences. It also fills in background on foreign lands for foreign-language study. It prints articles on local history...food, family, furnishings news of use in homemaking courses... texts of great speeches... examples of English composition and good grammar.

No wonder more and more teachers are using newspapers in classrooms to enrich basic-course material. In fact, newspapers have become such a widespread teaching tool that an extensive program of teachers' workshops has been created. At these sessions—held at various colleges throughout the country—teachers learn the most effective techniques for using newspapers in class to stimulate student interest. Sponsored jointly by educators and American Newspaper Publishers Association, these workshops help teachers help students become active, well-informed citizens. As a textbook for youth or the main source of information for all Americans, our country's newspapers never stop serving.

NOTE TO TEACHERS: This newspaper will be glad to help you begin a newspaper-in-classroom program at your school. If you have any questions on this subject, please call or write us.

THERON'S Down at the Old Country Store

On The Columbiana - Lisbon Road.

This year we are working on a plan that has been tried by so many I.G.A. Stores. It is called a chain store evacuation plan. In other words we help to overcome traffic congestion in their aisles. Sometimes it gives us the same problems but we just put on another addition and go on.
